Love and Marriage by James Van Heusen (1955)
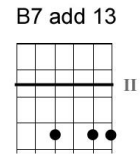

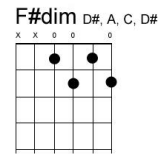

F#dim D#, A, C, D#   B7 add 13

A   E7
Love and marriage, love and marriage
A(½)   A7(½)   D(½)   Dm(¼)   Dm6(¼)
   They go together like a horse and car   riage
A   C#7(½)   D(½)
This I tell ya broth   er
      F#dim(½)   A(½)   B7add13(½)   E7(½)
You can't have one without the oth   er

A   E7
Love and marriage, love and marriage
A(½)   A7(½)   D(½)   Dm(¼)   Dm6(¼)
   It's an institute you can't dispar   age
A   C#7(½)   D(½)
Ask the local gen   try
      F#dim(½)   A(½)   E7(½)   A(½)
And they will   say it's element'   ry

      F(½)   Fma7(½)   F6   Gm7(½)   C7(½)   F
   Try, try,   try to separate them;   It's   an illusion
      F(½)   Fma7(½)   F6   A(½)   Bm7(½)   E7
   Try, try,   try, and you will only come   to this conclusion

A   E7
Love and marriage, love and marriage
A(½)   A7(½)   D(½)   Dm(¼)   Dm6(¼)
   They go together like a horse and car   riage
A   C#7(½)   D(½)
Dad was told by moth   er
      F#dim(½)   A(½)   F#dim(½)   A(½)
You can't have one, you can't have none
      F#dim(½)   A(½)   B7add13(½)   E9(¼)   E7b9(¼)   A(¼)   Bb7(¼)   A(hold)
You can't have one without the   oth   er
