

Rise Up Singing

by Daisy May (May Erlewine) (2007)

G A D D
If you are weary and trying to find your way home
G A D D
Don't give up my friend, cause you are not alone
G A D D
In a world full of trouble, you know trouble may find you
G A D D
But I got your medicine baby and this is what you do

D D G G
You've got to rise up, rise up singing
A A D D
In time this too shall pass
D D G G
You've got to rise up, rise up singing
Em A D D
You know trouble ain't built to last

And when your left standing with no hope in sight
Cause at the end of the tunnel someone's been dimming out the light
You can lose your way and end up far from home
'Til the day you lose your voice, you cannot lose your song

You know life ain't easy and life will make you cry
But so long as you're breathing, you know that you are still alive
Now when you're standing at the station, waiting for your train
Don't you think you'll be singing that sweet old refrain

You've got to rise up, rise up singing
In time this too shall pass
You've got to rise up, rise up singing
You know trouble ain't built to last
